

Uncle Sam Plans Employment Posts

Would Open Chain of Free Agencies Throughout the Country to Obtain Workers for Fields, Orchards, and Vineyards of Far West During the Busy Seasons.

Secretary of Labor Wilson and Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti are working out a plan for the establishment of a chain of free employment agencies to be conducted in various centers of population by the Department of Labor. The plan at present calls for the establishing of nineteen offices in branches of the Immigration Bureau. New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and New Orleans are to be four of the first selected. Baltimore may be given one of the offices, though its proximity to Washington, the headquarters of the Immigration Bureau, may prove a bar.

Employers of labor will be solicited to acquaint the Government employment agency in their district with their labor needs. Men seeking work will be given an opportunity to apply at any of these nineteen branch offices and the Government will try to bring the man and the job together.

COMMISSIONER OUTLINES HIS PLANS.

Commissioner Caminetti, in discussing the plan with members of Congress who have displayed interest, has given an outline of what his bureau and the department hopes to do by utilizing present government machinery for operation as an employment agency. Mr. Caminetti believes that the plan will go far to solving the present-day labor problem. He believes it will provide a permanent solution of the difficulty of obtaining harvest hands for the Middle West every year, and fruit pickers and packers in California, Oregon, and Washington orchards and vineyards. He believes, too, that it will aid in obtaining employment for the seasonal worker at times when there is no work for him in his regular line.

One feature of the plan which appeals particularly to Mr. Caminetti is that of arranging with heads of big manufacturing institutions to give thirty to 60 day lay-offs during Pacific coast fruit picking seasons to employees, who will be permitted to join the fruit harvest workers for this period, and then return to their regular employment.

Asked To Co-operate.

The plan provides that heads of big factories in the East shall be asked to notify the department as to the number of men they lay off during slack periods in summer. California and the other fruit-growing States on the coast need ten times the normal amount of labor for a couple of months each summer when the fruit crop is harvested. Men, women, and children work in the orchards and vineyards. Mr. Caminetti believes that a close watch will be kept in future on private employment agencies and that if it is found they are being conducted in such a way as to defraud labor seekers their managers will be prosecuted. The Secretary can have no reason, in fact, for the existence of agencies which charge men money for services which the Government, through the Department of Labor, should provide without charge.

Announcement of the details of the department's plan for the employment bureau have not been fully perfected, but it is expected that Secretary Wilson will soon be ready to outline the plan to the House and the Senate.

Secretary Wilson already has taken the question of permitting arrangements with the railroads whereby excursion trains could be run to the harvest fields of the West. This is a plan which has been discussed for some time. It is expected that the department will soon be ready to outline the plan to the House and the Senate.

Brilliant Barge Parties Planned for Next Week

Two barge parties, rivaling Cleopatra's brilliant pageant, when she floated down the Nile to meet Mark Antony, will be held on the Potomac next week, the first being that of the Builders and Manufacturers' Exchange, June 30, and the second that of the membership committee of the Board of Trade, July 2.

The big barge, which was used for similar excursions, will be equipped with awnings, refreshment tables, electric lights, potted plants, and will resemble a floating garden. A piano will be hoisted aboard and while a steam tug escorts down the river and back with its unique tow, there will be music, refreshments, and a variety of other entertainment features.

There will be 30 on the trip of June 30, and about half that many when the Board of Trade committee goes. On both occasions the barge will leave the dock at the foot of Third street at 5 o'clock and will return about midnight.

Alumni Officers to Meet.

Officers of the various alumni associations of the high and normal schools will meet this evening at the Franklin School. Fred L. Plank, president of the Central High School Alumni Association, called a meeting at the Franklin School a month ago, and it was planned at that time to hold a monthly meeting of the associations of Central, Eastern, Business, Western, Technical, and the J. Ormond Wilson Normal School.

Rapid Increase in the Number of Readers of The Times Has Made the Installation of a Modern Motor Car Service Necessary to the Distribution of Every Edition. Here Are the Automobiles Which Will Hasten the Delivery to You of Your Paper With the News While It Is Hot.

NEW MOTORS SPEED TIMES TO READERS

Readers of The Times now have the advantage of the fastest newspaper delivery service Washington ever has had, three new Ford automobile delivery wagons having been added to the equipment of the circulation department.

The new machines covered their routes in the residence district yesterday for the first time, and forty-five minutes from the time the big presses in the basement of the Munsey building ceased to run, every paper had been delivered to the carriers and most of the subscribers were reading the news of the day before the ink was fairly dry. The aim of the big metropolitan dailies is to clip every second possible from the time between going to press and placing the paper in the hands of the readers, and with effort and organization and automobile service The Times has now raised itself head and shoulders above the rest.

The purchase of the machines was not made with an eye to economy, though the increasing cost of stable room and feed may prove it such, but rather to shorten the time between the ink where the paper is printed and the ink where it is read. It is the present state of progress this is all that can be done, but it still quicker methods of delivery are being invented, and they will be adopted for the same reason—the benefit of thousands of readers.

The new delivery system will give a subscriber plenty of time to read his paper by daylight, even when the day grows shorter. In most instances, the papers are delivered to the carriers at 3 o'clock, and the carriers are on the street with the day's news at 4 o'clock, and the new system will bring the home delivery up to the same high standard.

The three new Ford cars will be utilized to make faster deliveries to carriers at suburban branches to the newsstands, and the news dealers. The Times has always been the first paper on the street with the day's news, and the new system will bring the home delivery up to the same high standard.

America Losing Grip on Cotton, Declares Expert

PARIS, June 22.—"Unless America awakens very soon to the fact that its cotton industry is fast dropping behind, while the same industry in other countries is rapidly forging ahead, it will shortly find itself deprived of its present hold-up on the world's cotton market by more up-to-date nations," Sir Charles Macara, president of the Industrial Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers' Association, said in an exclusive interview.

Sir Charles is heading a delegation of representatives from the cotton associations of the chief cotton-growing countries of the world.
